Final report of the agvet review misses the mark

The final report of the review of Australia's agricultural and veterinary chemical regulation framework has been released. The 139 recommendations from the draft report have been amalgamated into 58 recommendations however, little has been changed. As such, CropLife has serious and significant concerns with large parts of the report. These concerns were clearly outlined in our submission.

The Minister responsible for this review, the Hon. David Littleproud MP, will now consider the Commonwealth Government's response. CropLife will remain actively engaged with this process and will keep members abreast of developments.
